Inspired by Natasa Kajganic, founder of the Toronto Flower Market and Canadian Flowers Week, six local flower farmers are starting the areas first outdoor cut flower market. We invite you to join us to browse the colourful stalls full of your favourite Spring flowers, purchase a bouquet and meet and chat to the people that love and grow the blooms. Be sure to ask the vendors about where and how they grow their flowers, what other services they offer and tips for caring for your purchases.

About Ottawa Flower Market - Following in the footsteps of the local slow food movement several local flower farmers joined together to raise awareness of the availability of fresh, seasonal, sustainable flowers grown without added chemicals and air miles usually associated with imported flowers. All are passionate about their land and environment.

Whether you are a bride looking for exceptional flowers for your special day, a florist trying to source local blooms for clients, a business needing displays for events or someone searching for an appropriate floral tribute for a loved one, our local flower farmer florists are here to help you.
